West German Mineral Days

The international event for collectors and lovers of minerals, fossils, gemstones and jewellery

The glistening and fascinating world of precious stones, minerals and fossil

Are you interested in minerals, fossils, gemstones and jewellery?

Would you like to learn more about the history of our Planet – from meteors hitting the Earth to a comprehensive range of the final ages all the way to the Stone Age?

Then the West German Mineral Days in Dortmund are just what you are looking for. For the first time about 200 dealers from Germany, the European countries and from overseas will present on three whole days a multitude of items and facts for families, collectors and lovers of minerals on over 10,000 square metres of space.

In addition to the colourful and attractive booths, a special program will feature a wide range of attractive shows and exhibitions.

In 2012 the West German Mineral Days will take place at the same time like the DORTMUNDER HERBST. This will bring significant advantages for visitors and exhibitors.
